

You create great marketing content. But most SMB partners don't have the time or resources to personalize and distribute it.

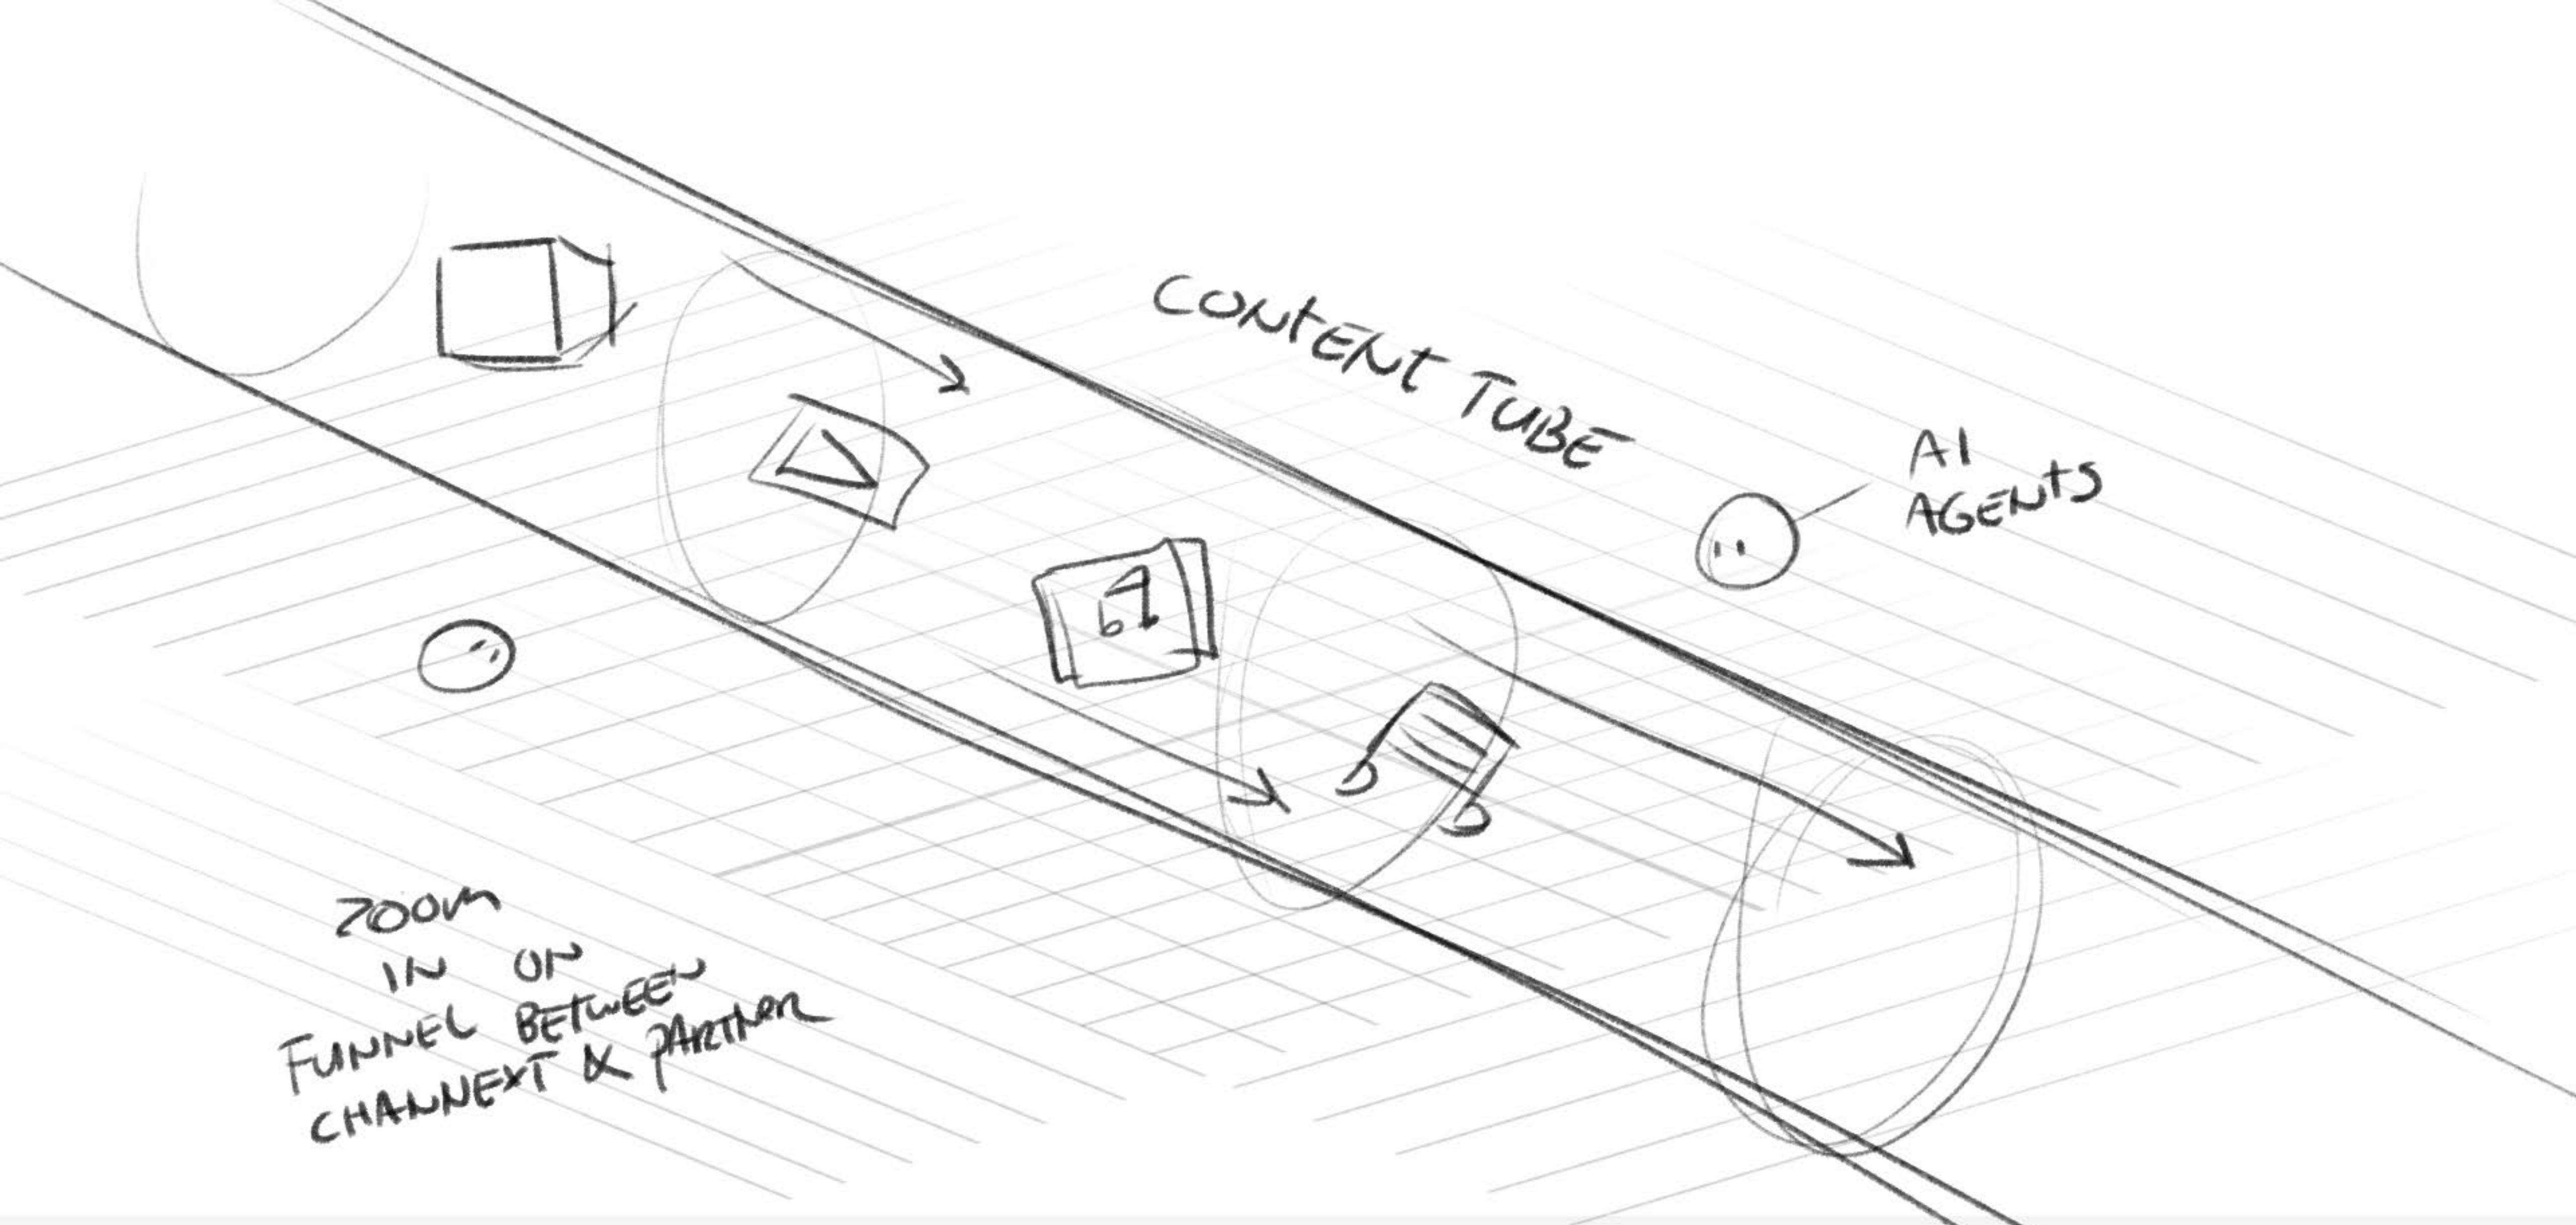

That limits your reach, weakens messaging, and slows demand generation.

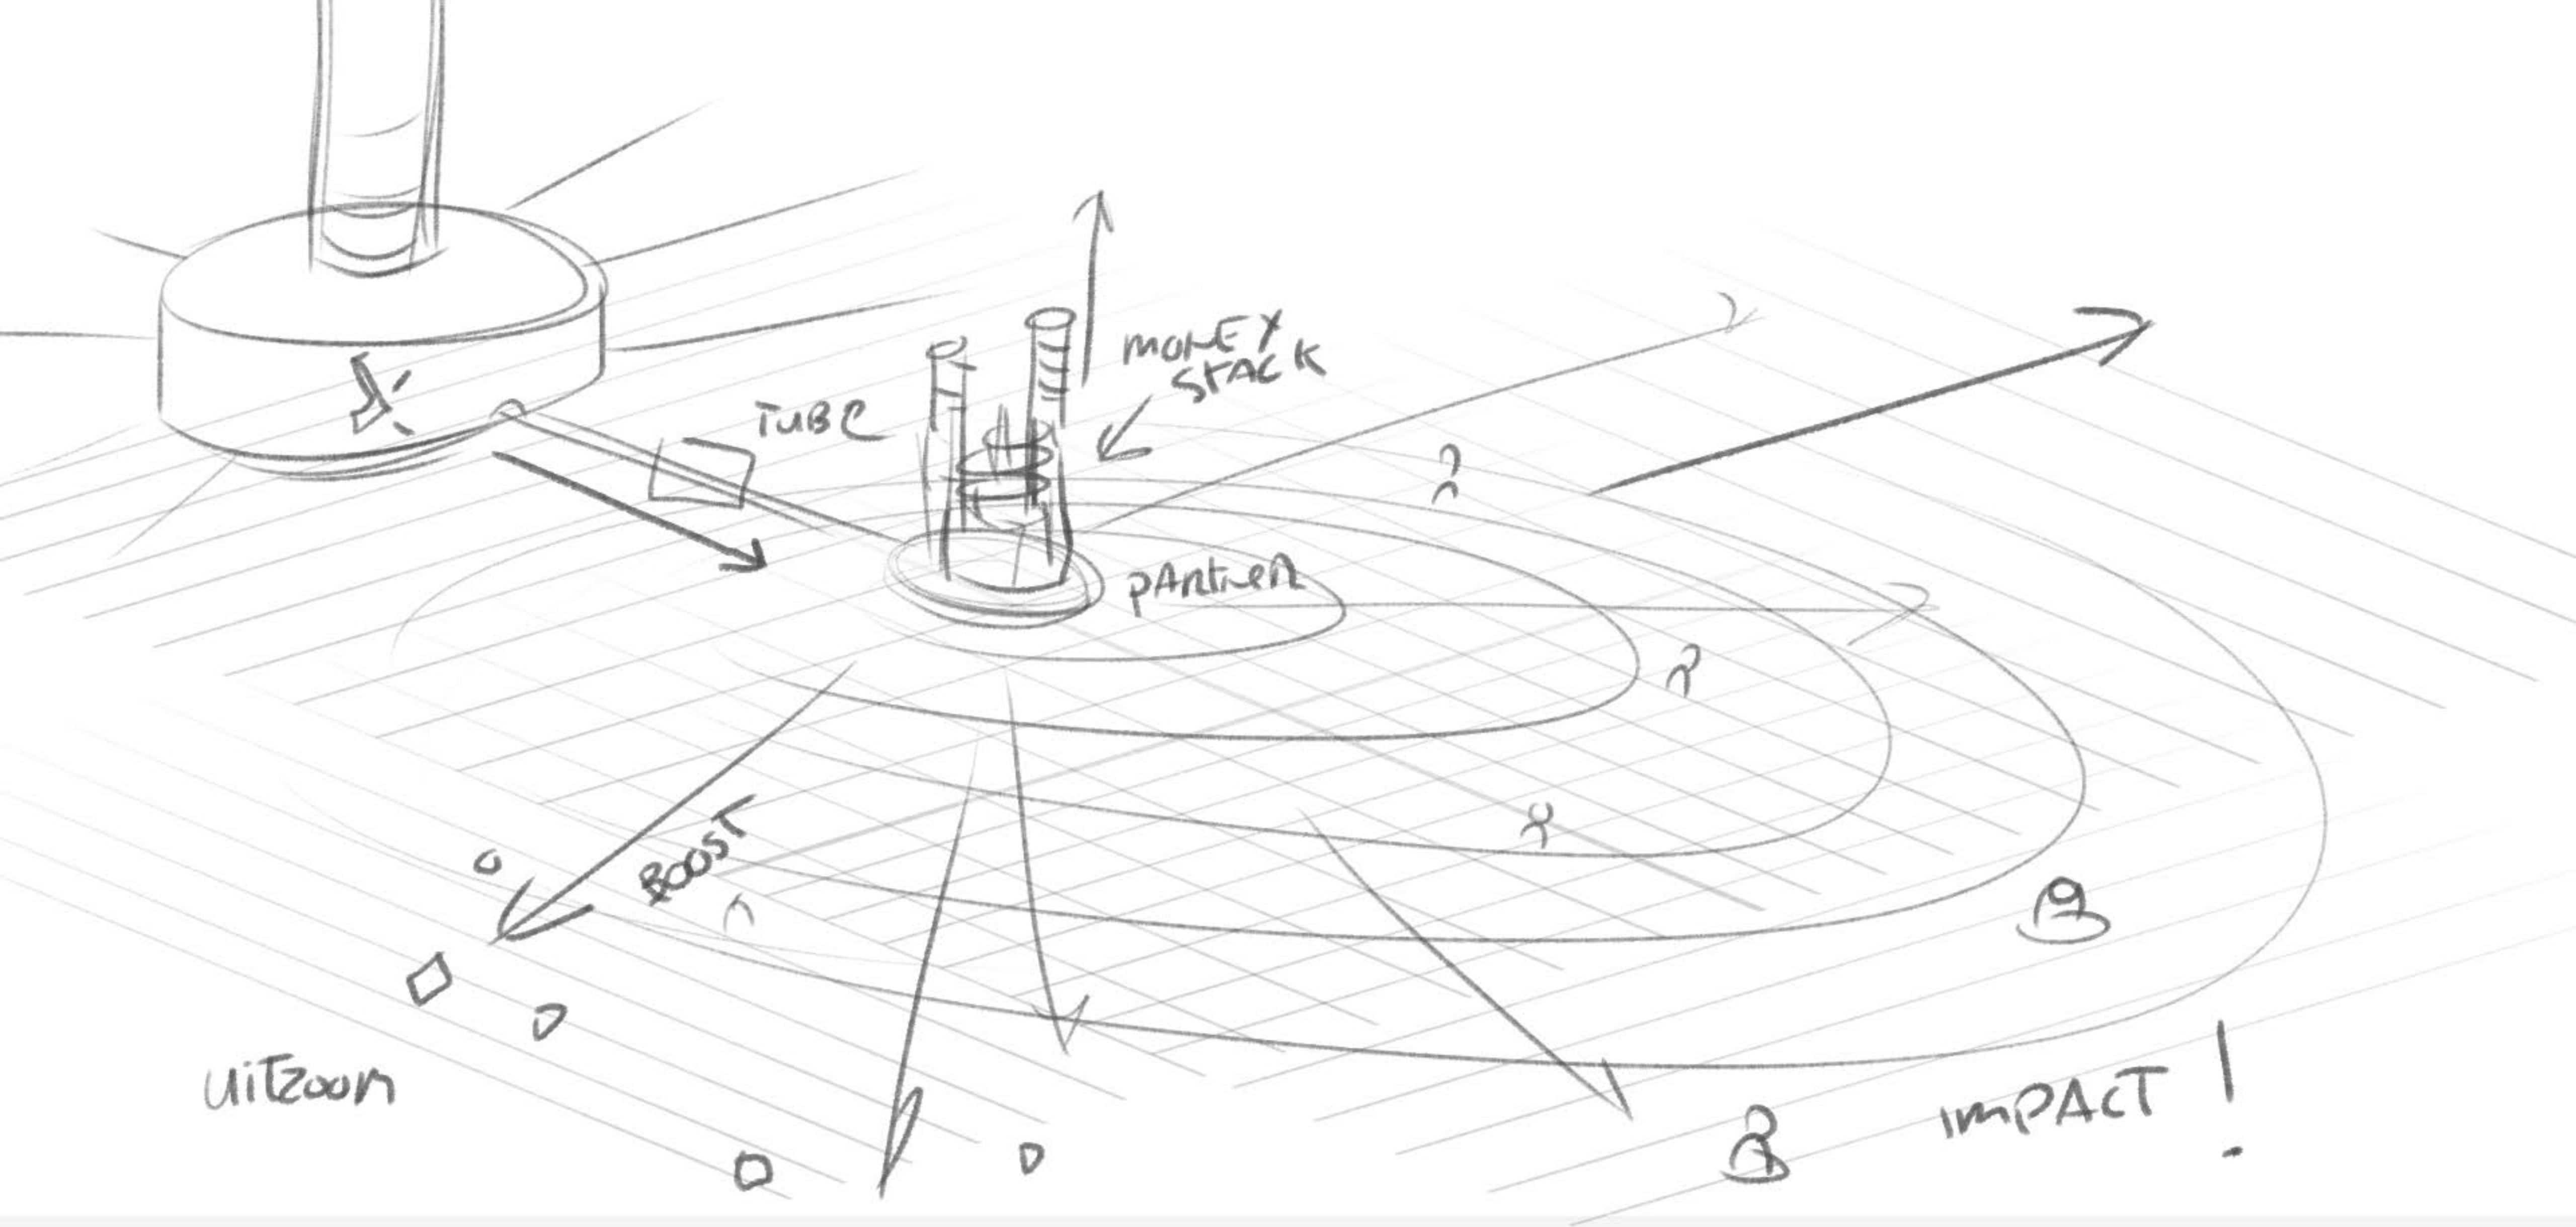

Channext combines an AI platform with in-house content services to ensure your campaigns reach end customers through your partners and resonate with both.

Partners get ready-to-use, brand-compliant, localized content. Our AI adapts it to each partner's tone of voice and automatically distributes it through their most effective channels.

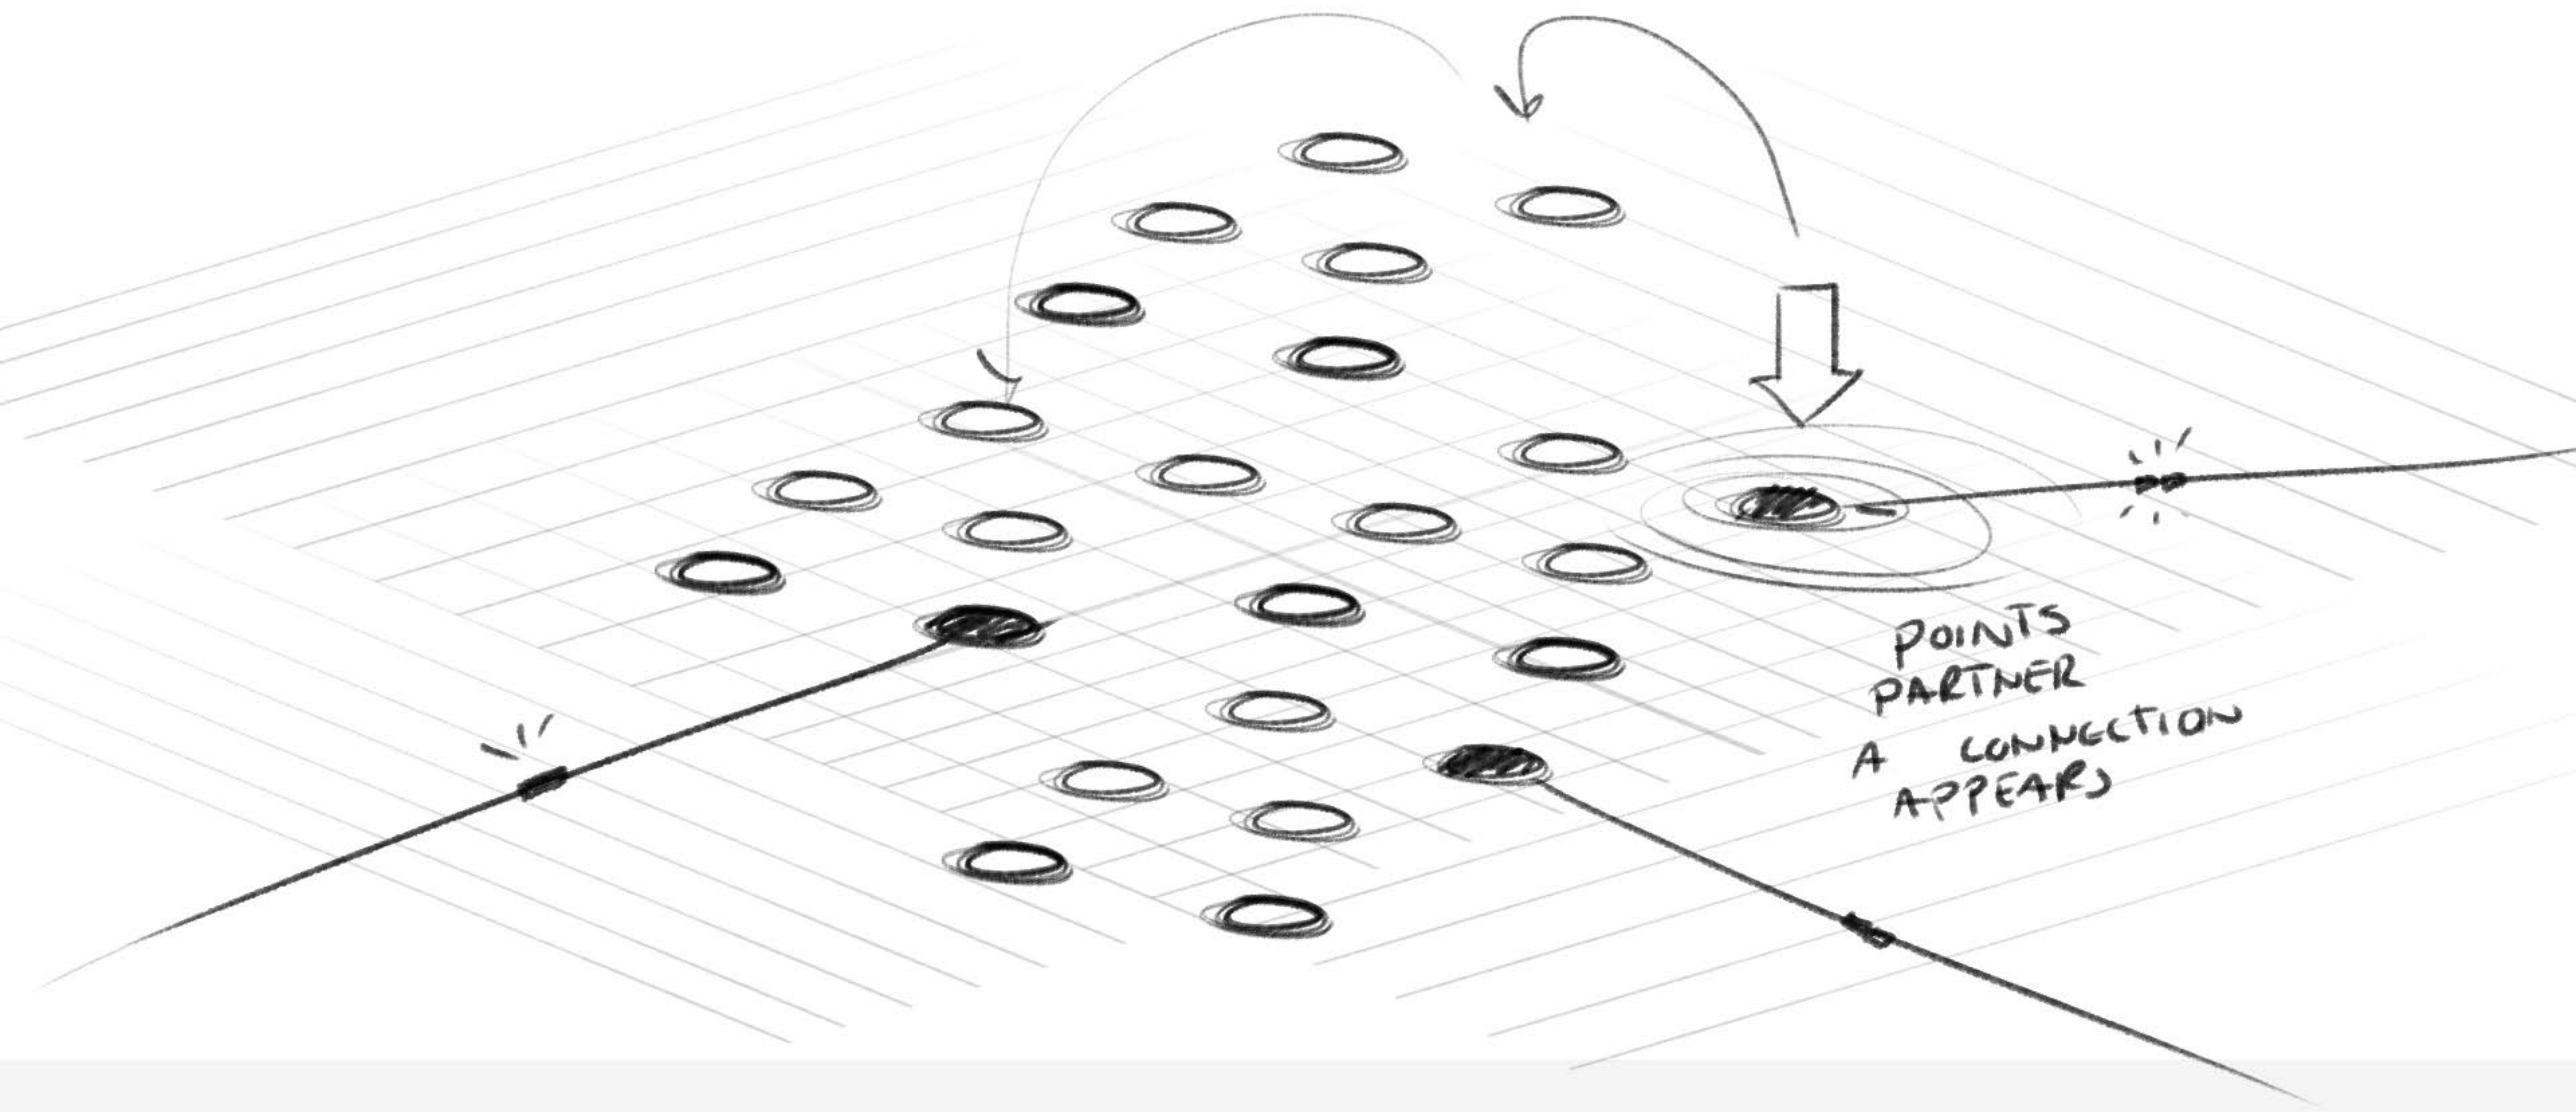

The result: consistent messaging, higher partner engagement, and measurable revenue impact.

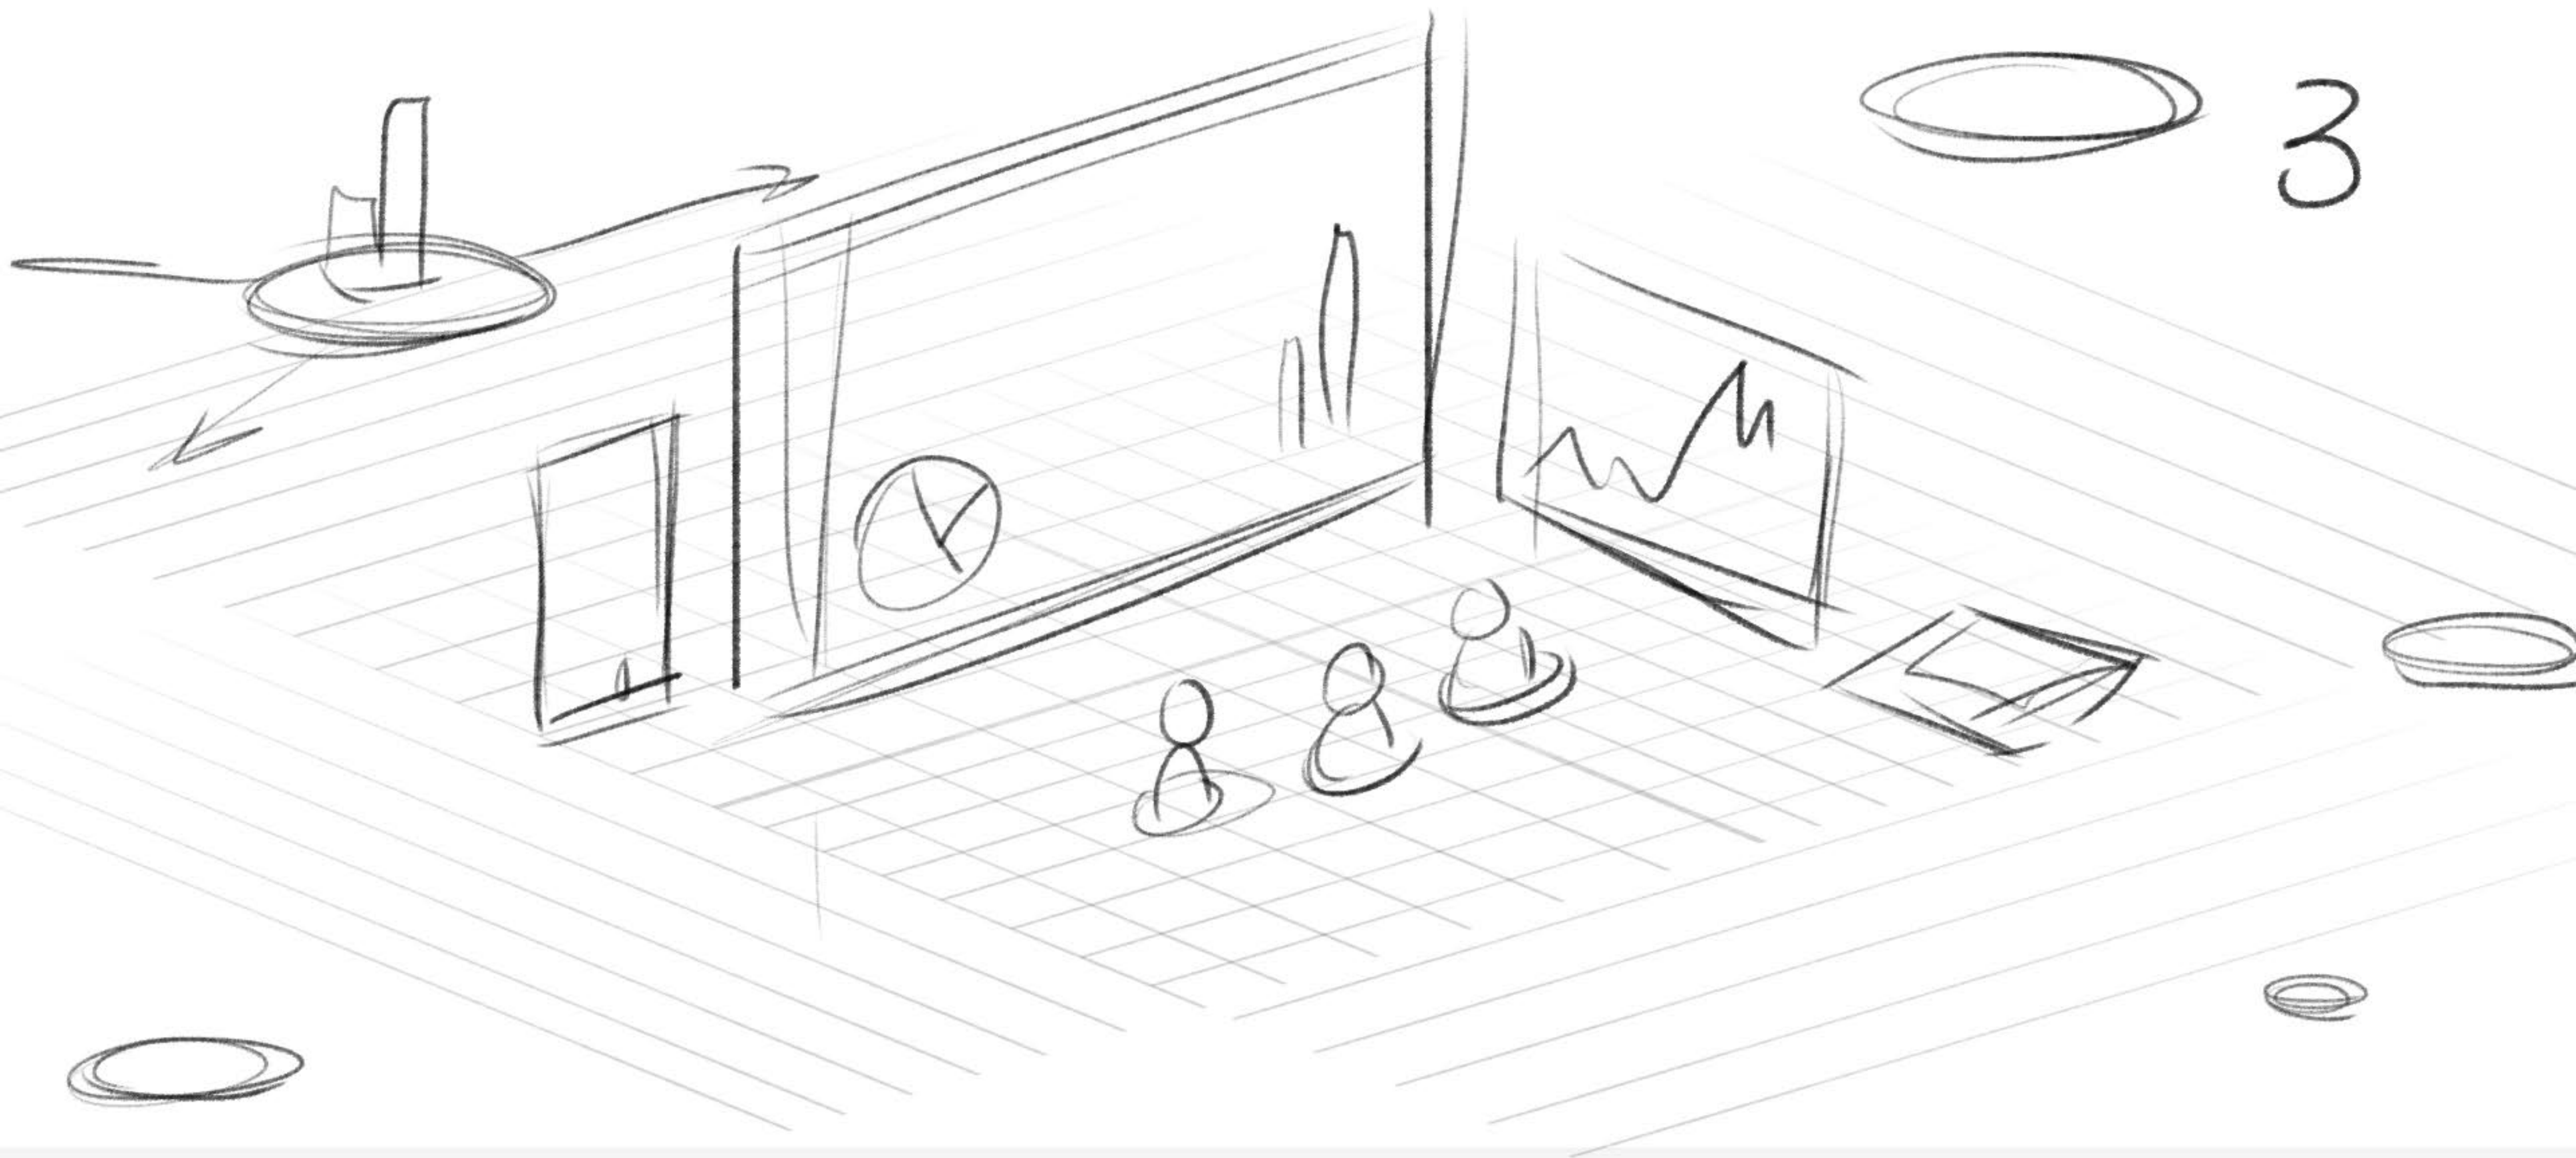

You don't have time to get hundreds of partners actively marketing your content...
so we do it for you.

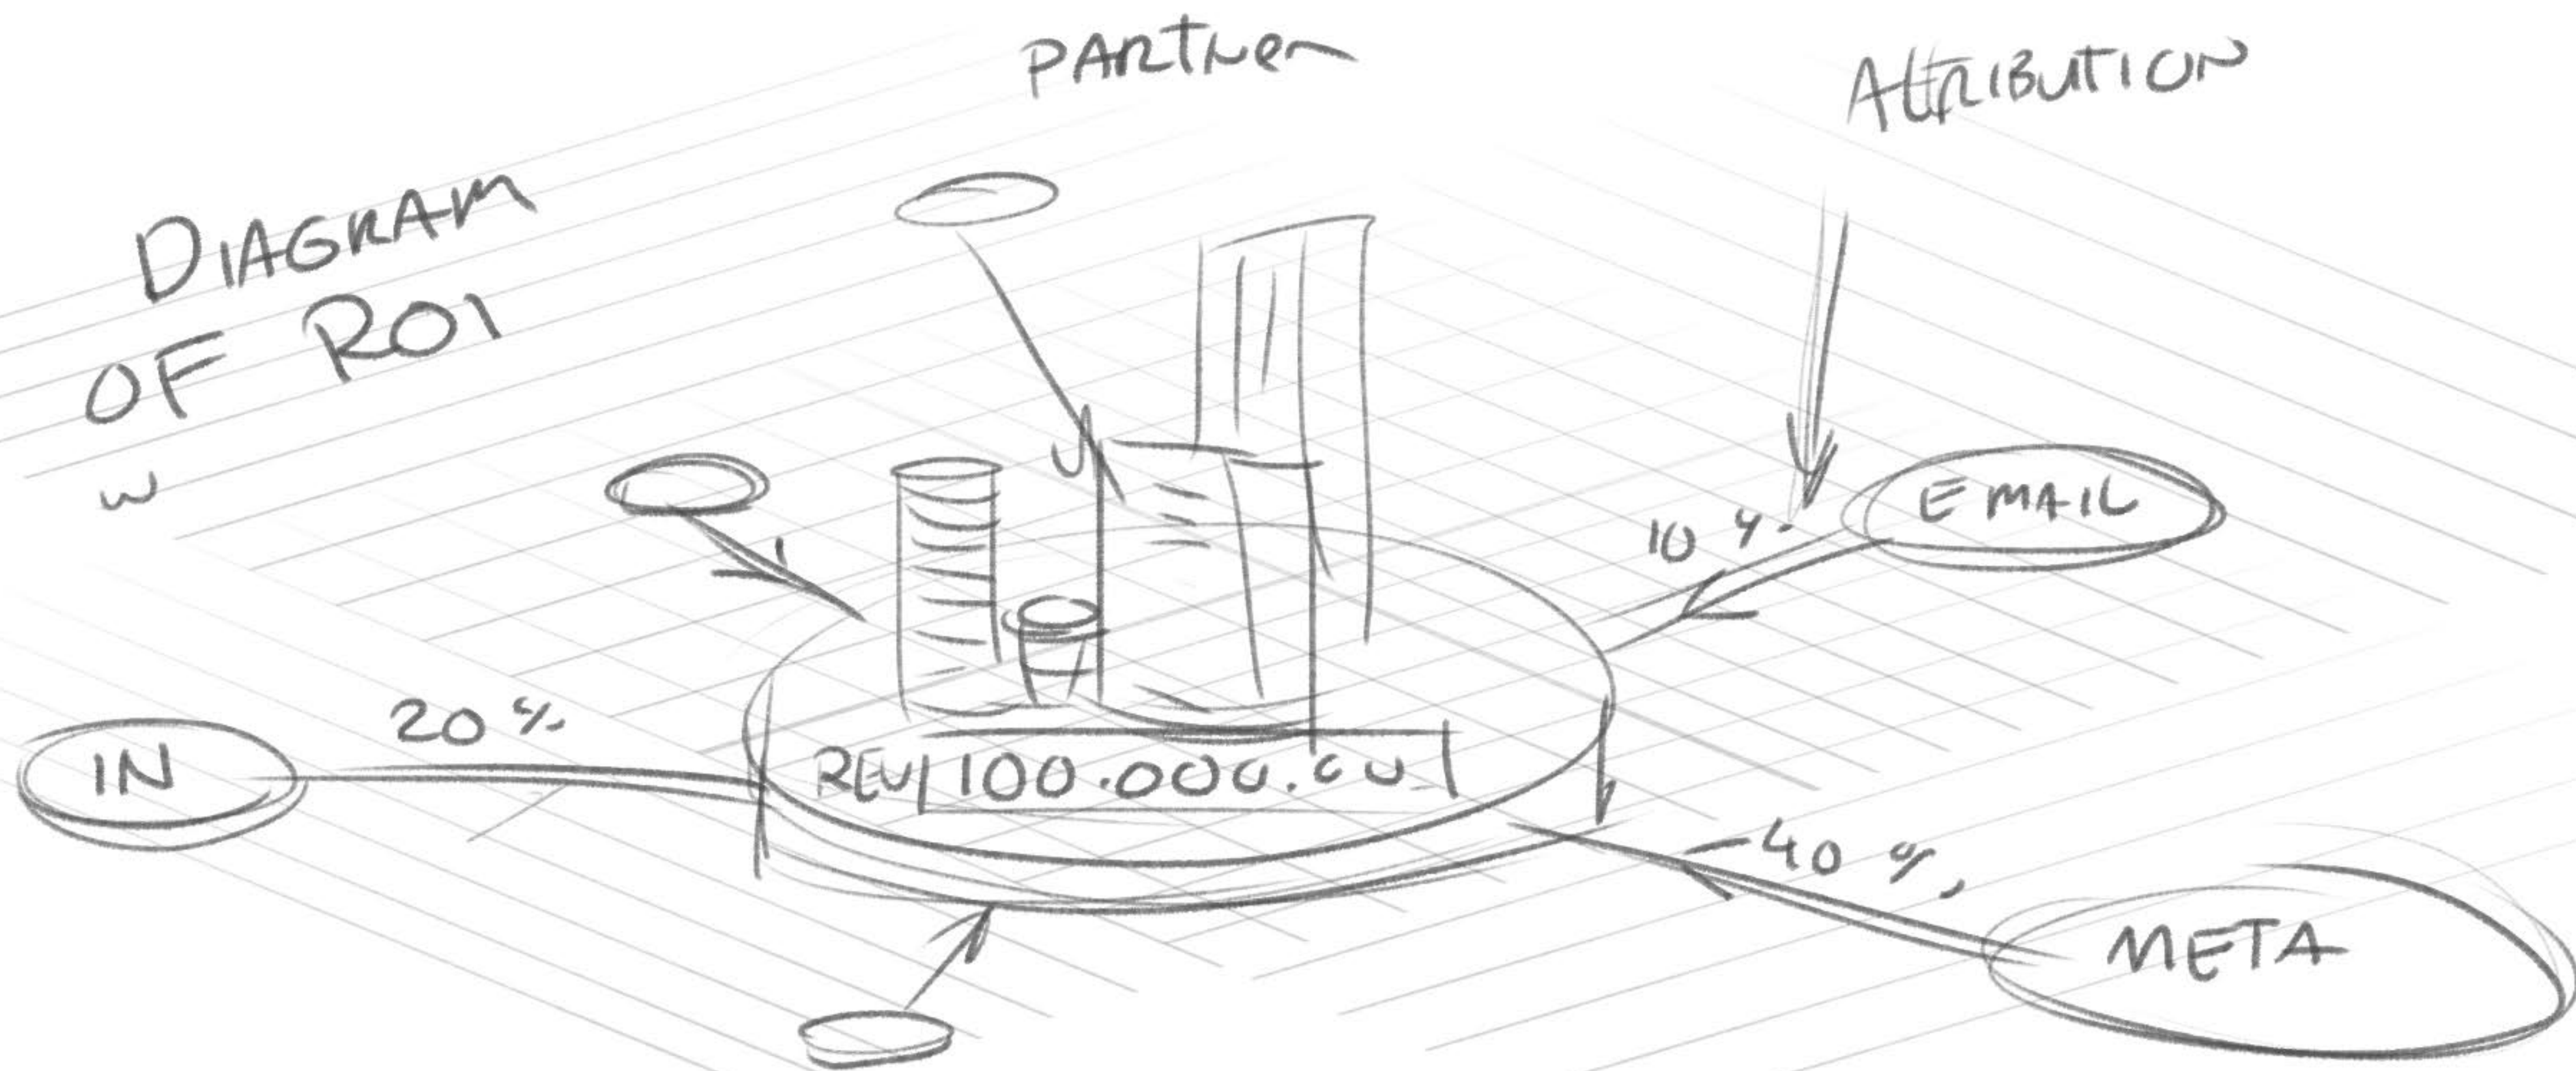

Alongside self-activation, Channext's multilingual activation team personally calls your partners, guides them through the platform, shows the value, and gets them live in under 15 minutes.

You point us towards which partners to activate; we handle the rest.

Channext tracks partner activity and campaign results, giving you clear visibility via dashboards and monthly reports.

We connect performance data directly to partner revenue through transparent ROI analysis and clear attribution.
